Operation Winter Shield

A Mission to Keep Ukrainian Families Alive This Winter

As winter approaches, Russia's relentless attacks on Ukraine's energy infrastructure are turning freezing temperatures into a weapon of war. When power grids and heating systems fail, thousands of civilians face life-threatening conditions.

We have a solution to help keep families warm and alive—but we need your immediate support.

The Mission: Operation Winter Shield

We are partnering with Life Cube to deliver emergency insulated shelters directly to high-risk civilian communities in Ukraine.

Unlike conventional tents, these innovative, rapidly deployable shelters provide:

- Superior Thermal Insulation: Rigid, air-insulated walls retain warmth efficiently when central heating fails.
- Added Debris Protection: Durable, impact-resilient construction provides an additional barrier against falling plaster and flying glass.
- Deployment in Minutes: Simple, flip-of-a-switch inflation allows virtually anyone to set up a shelter quickly.

The Ask: Help Us Save Lives

We are raising funds to launch our first winter deployment, providing:

1. 1,000 emergency thermal shelters.
2. Immediate freight and logistics to Kyiv.
3. On-the-ground distribution and support to ensure shelters reach families who need them most.

Personal Accountability. Proven Commitment.

Having served three tours in Ukraine, including with the 12th International Legion, I know the people, the challenges, and the urgency firsthand.

I will personally travel to Kyiv to oversee delivery and distribution, using my established military and civilian networks to get these shelters directly into the hands of those who need them.

My ongoing work developing unmanned ground systems for Ukraine continues, but protecting civilians from the deadly winter cold is an immediate priority.

We have the technology. We have the logistics network. Now we need the funding to put these life-saving shelters to work.

About Glenn

Glenn Grootegoed is a Cincinnati-based designer, humanitarian, and Ukrainian combat veteran who has dedicated his talents to protecting others. Following Russia's 2022 invasion, he served three tours in Ukraine, including with the 12th International Legion, developing innovative unmanned ground systems for military applications. Previously, he founded Warrior Homesteads, a nonprofit providing weather-resistant tiny homes for homeless veterans. His commitment to freedom, innovation, and humanitarian service continues through Operation Winter Shield.

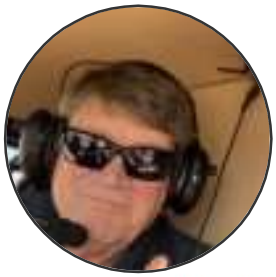

To show how durable these shelters are...

I've hit it full force with a baseball bat, stood on top of it, and had it in the surf for over 6 hours...yes, it floats!

And while that can be fun for the family, it's also a great to have one in the trunk of your car for any emergency.

We ask for your support as we send units out for crucial medical and sheltering situations.
